The range of KIT's security research activities extends from new technologies to legal aspects of the digitized information society. (Photo: rolffimages – Fotolia)

Security today is a keyword in politics and society: The global and digital society wishes to master all areas of life with minimum risks. At KIT, scientists of the competence area “Information, Communication, and Organization” also conduct research in the area of security. On Wednesday, January 22, 2014, 18.30 hrs, they will present their work at the Karlsruhe city hall.
