Remote studies can be made from at home via the internet independently of place and time. Hence, this type of learning represents an ideal way of qualification for persons having professional or family obligations. The Remote Studies Center of Karlsruhe Institute of Technology (KIT) counsels and supports remote students and interested persons at no costs. On Friday, February 22, it will organize an open house from 14 to 18 hrs in order to present itself to the public (Karl-Friedrich-Straße 17, Karlsruhe). This event will be part of the Germany-wide Remote Studies Day 2013.
