

Ethics as “Compass” in the Globalized World

Series of Presentations in the Summer Semester: Colloquium Fundamentale Focuses on Values in Society, Economics, and Science

Orientation by ethics? This question is in the focus of the presentations of ZAK in the summer semester. (Photo: Felix Grünschloss)

Progress and globalization make people face the new challenge of acting responsibly, “correctly”. Moral standards are in greater demand than ever. In the 2013 summer semester, the Colloquium Fundamentale of ZAK | Center for Applied Cultural Science and Studium Generale of Karlsruhe Institute of Technology will concentrate on basic principles of today’s ethics. The series will be opened on Thursday, April 25, 18.30 hrs, by the newly appointed President of the Global Ethics Foundation and President of the State Court of Justice of Baden-Württemberg, Eberhard Stilz.
