

Lecture Series at KIT: Middle Kingdom – quo vadis? China between Major Developments and Stagnation

In the 2015/16 Winter Term, the Colloquium Fundamentale Will Cover Worldwide Impacts of China's Economic Growth

Will China have a bright future or is the country rich in tradition doomed to failure due to internal conflicts? These questions will be in the focus of the Colloquium Fundamentale. (Photo: morguefile.com, hotblack)

Under the heading “Middle Kingdom – Quo vadis? China between Major Developments and Stagnation“, the interdisciplinary Colloquium Fundamentale of ZAK | Center for Applied and General Studies of Karlsruhe Institute of Technology (KIT) will focus on developments in China and their global impacts. The series of lectures (in German only) will be opened by the former German ambassador in China, Dr. Volker Stanzel, on the “Neue Weltmacht China” (China, the new world power) on Thursday, November 19, 2015, 18 hrs, at the NTI-Hörsaal (Engesserstr. 5, building 30.10, KIT Campus South).

[...]

More information on the lecturers and lectures can be found online at: www.zak.kit.edu/english/

Monika Landgraf
Chief Press Officer

Kaiserstraße 12
76131 Karlsruhe, Germany
Phone: +49 721 608-47414
Fax: +49 721 608-43658
E-mail: presse@kit.edu

For further information, please contact:

Elisabeth Loeser
ZAK | Center for Applied and
General Studies
Phone: +49 721 608-45898
E-mail: elisabeth.loeser@kit.edu

Karlsruhe Institute of Technology (KIT) is a public corporation pursuing the tasks of a Baden-Wuerttemberg state university and of a national research center of the Helmholtz Association. The KIT mission combines the three core tasks of research, higher education, and innovation. With about 9,400 employees and 24,500 students, KIT is one of the big institutions of research and higher education in natural sciences and engineering in Europe.

This press release is available on the internet at www.kit.edu.